The Temple meeting is planned for an open air event and the addresses will be made from the Bartlett hotel beginning at eight o'clock unless the weather should turn unfavorable and necessitate holding the affair in the school auditorium.

All of the details of the rally have been left to the Mannington Republicans and they are anticipating the largest gathering of voters of both parties that will be held in that city this year. The Elks band of Mannington has been secured for the occasion, and will render a concert before the addresses. A number of Fairmont Republicans are planning to attend this evening and practically all of the Republican county candidates will be there.

Congressman Temple is well known in this section of the state through his connection with Washington and Jefferson college in which institution he was professor of history before entering the political arena. The same careful application to the study of national affairs that he devoted to his studies as a college man has placed at his command much knowledge of conditions as they exist and with his ability to deliver his thought the Mannington voters are anticipating an enjoyable evening.

The next important political meeting in the county is to be at Fairmont October 15 when Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, will speak in the Circuit Court room in Fairmont. Preparatory to this meeting and to arrange the details of the Senator's reception the local Republican club will meet Saturday night of this week at eight o'clock. ## TRY NEW WAY OF MAKING GASOLINE

Carnegie Gas Company Will Build Experimental Station at Downs.

The Carnegie Gas company is planning to build an experimental gas plant near Downs, according to a report in local gas and oil circles. The new plant which will be but a small affair is to try out an entirely new method of extracting gasoline from natural gas. It is thought that the new process is an adaptation of the present absorption process.

The Monongahela Valley Traction company are building a new absorption plant to take the gasoline from the gas produced in their Miracle Run and Cross Roads field. The plant is being built near Fairview. Work on this has been delayed somewhat by the difficulty in obtaining prompt shipments of material and machinery. It will likely be in operation some time this winter. A similar plant is now being constructed by the Philadelphia company near Downs.

The six inch main gas line from the Cross Roads field to Vans Run is now practically completed and a new well in this region are turned into the Fairmont supply the officers of the Monongahela Valley Traction company thing that the local gas supply will be amply sufficient for all purposes this winter. Six new wells in this region are now producing and four other wells are being drilled, some of which are now almost completed.

LARGE CROWD HEARS MRS. O. D. OLIPHANT

Anti-Suffrage Address Was Interesting to Audience
Last Night.

One of the largest crowds seen recently at a political gathering in this city turned out last night and filled the Grand Theatre under to standing room to hear Mrs. O. D. Oliphant of New Jersey, deliver her anti-suffrage address.

In an able and interesting talk she attacked the arguments of the suffrage advocates and before the meeting was concluded she had converted many temporarily to her cause. Mrs. Oliphant was introduced by Ex-Governor A. B. Fleming, whose wife is one of the honorary presidents of the state anti-suffrage organization.

Mrs. Oliphant, in her address which consumed two hours, beginning at 8 o'clock, denied the charges of the suffragists that she was supported by the liquor interests of the country. She pointed out that the failure of woman suffrage to accomplish any noticeable good in California, Colorado and the other states that now have equal suffrage. She stated that the majority of the women of the nation in her opinion did not desire to vote and would rather remain at home and devote their energies to home life rather than participate in political affairs.

Speaking of the relations between men and women and their attitude toward government Mrs. Oliphant said: "The interests of classes differ but the interests of man and woman are identical. Perhaps the woman carries the heavier responsibility because she bears, rears and trains the future republic of this nation. A nation will never rise higher than home life. In the hands of the American woman rest the destiny of this nation for she moulds and trains the character of the future citizens of this republic and I contend tonight that it is a far greater far finer service to put the quality into the future citizenship than to walk down the street on election day and vote for the alderman of your ward. We cannot have both. We contend that women contribute more to the state in service that men cannot render and that it is for the best interest of the state that she concentrate all her interests along these lines which she alone can contribute."

City Hall Notes

Insurance rate agents are in the city today looking into the fire hazards about the city and how best the firemen can handle them. The rate of insurance in Fairmont which has a paid fire department, two fire trucks, a fire chief's car, two hook and ladder wagons, is greater than the rate of insurance for Morgantown which has no paid department other than a $75 a month man to look after the hose wagons and horses. The reason for this is not known and it is this difference in rates that has caused the city commission to investigate the matter.

Tomorrow is pay day at the fire department and the city hall. The payroll this month will be one of the largest in several months on account of the extra amount of work on the streets in the sewer departments.

City Clerk Kern is sending out specifications today to various manufacturers for the installation of the new filling system in the city clerk's office and the treasurer's office. Open competitive bids, non-restricted, will be accepted.

The West Virginian's Electric Score Board will show every play of the great World Series games within one minute of the time it is actually played.

A special leased wire running right from the ball grounds will supplement the regular Associated Press dispatches and the next best thing to being part of the big crowd at the game will be to spend the afternoon in front of the West Virginian office.

The full story of the game, play on the streets within a few minutes after the game is concluded each day.

Don't miss either the free show on the Score Board or the paper any afternoon on which a World Series game is played.

W. H. VEACH

Republican Candidate for Sheriff of Marion County.

VEACH SUCCESSFUL MAN OF AFFAIRS

Republican Candidate Has Made Good in Many Capacities.

W. H. Veach, Republican candidate for sheriff of Marion county, is a true representative of native West Virginian and his family name has long been suggestive of the early pioneer days in this state. The first Veach in this county was Benjamin Veach, great grandfather of the present candidate, who came here with Nathaniel Cochran in 1875. Cochran is remembered as the man who was captured by the Indians and kept prisoner for a long time.

W. H. Veach is a native of Marion county and is a product of the Marion county school system having been educated in the public schools and the Fairmont State Normal school. He was born March 10, 1863 and throughout his career has been active in business and public life and a lifelong supporter of the Republican principles.

For many years he was engaged in the mercantile business at both Farmington and Mannington. He served as postmaster at Farmington for four years and three months and served one year as president of the Lincoln district Board of Education. He has been appointed to fill a vacancy. He served the county as a member of the state legislature in 1909. Mr. Veach is active in both church and fraternal affairs and has been a nearest quiet worker with a reputation of accomplishing things. The only time he was ever defeated for an elective office was 18 years ago when he was the Republican candidate for county commissioner.

This year he was reluctantly persuaded to accept the nomination for sheriff but when his friends had secured his selection in the primaries he accepted and with his characteristic determination to accomplish things he is now quietly engaged in a thorough canvass of the county wishing to meet every voter personally if possible. Thus believing that if a thing is worth doing at all it should be done well he is now spending his entire time in the campaign. He has promised to give the taxpayers of the county an honest and faithful effort to administer the sheriff's duties if elected. Those who have known him and had business dealings with him for the past twenty years are for him irrespective of partisan, class or racial lines.
